NOT A MOUSE BUT A GOAT

TO reiterate—The Bonanza is still a man and not a mouse, and the taxpayers of Nye will realize later, if they don't at present, that the expense which they have been put to and will be put to through the persecution and prosecution of the editor and manager of the Bonanza was all because of his efforts to protect their interests and save them from further maladministration of public affairs and the throwing of their money to the birds. The editor and manager of the Bonanza is the goat at present, but that has been his place so long that he has developed a pair of curling horns and a frontal bone that is like adamant. He is better able to butt today than ever before, but all he desires is that the public know that he is battering away for the rights and privileges and benefits of the taxpayers.

THEIR ADVICE IS NEEDED

IT is announced from Washington that the president is going to call to his aid some of the leaders of the opposite party in consultation regarding national defense. This is as it should be. Their advice may prove of great value. They can tell him a great deal about national defense, especially about that most important form of national defense, a protective tariff. They can tell him that the first and most important things to defend are American labor, American industry, American prosperity. Unless these things are defended by the repeal of the free trade tariff and the return of full protection, where is the money coming from with which to build warships, establish coast fortifications, buy guns and powder and pay soldiers and sailors? Oh, yes; by all means let the president get the advice of leaders of the opposite party. He needs it.

GIVE THEM BOTH BARRELS

WILSON'S policy of watchful waitedness has been for some time what an Englishman might term "a jolly, rotten spoof." It has become a matter of more serious consideration to Americans. Yesterday his policy sacrificed two lives at Nogales. Today the record may be even more bloody. This nation, which subscribed to the Monroe doctrine, has objected strenuously to intervention by European powers, with the result that holdings by both have been desolated and many people have been killed by the warring factions.

There is a state of war between Mexico and the United States today and the soldiers in the pine boxes are mute evidences that this is the case. If the chief executive of the nation possessed a backbone instead of a cupid's jelly for a spine, he would long ere this have established peace and order in Mexico. The boys on the border are ready for the brush and Panston is straining at the leash.

UNDER THE FLAT LIES TREASURE

WESTWARD the star of mineralization takes its way. The flat below town is now a center of absorbing interest. Deals are taking place that prove that strong capital is willing to lend itself to the proving of this theory. It is more than a theory. It is almost an evidenced fact, a demonstrated proposition.

If one were to visit the 1260 or 1350 levels of the Extension and note the immense ore bodies, with no indication of their existence above, simply the sand and the sagebrush, he would marvel at the temerity of the men who dug and dug and dug, who had the faith in themselves that make for success.

Now that all signs point to the western continuity of the ore bodies, the time is ripe to prove the faith that is in one's self. Deals have been made. Properties have been transferred. Capital has been enlisted. Contracts have been let. Labor has been employed. Material has been purchased. Now comes the conquest of the flat and the wrestling from beneath its surface the mineral which it has in hiding.

SILVER COMES INTO ITS OWN

CHINA is reported to be buying American silver, which caused the unprecedented incident of the price being advanced twice in one day, as it was yesterday. India will later purchase, as will England and other nations. Hard money must be placed behind the promises to pay, which have been issued in billion dollar lots. The whole world, with the exception of the United States, is broke today, and the people demand something besides government I. O. U.'s when the governments are bankrupt and can give no assurance of being able to redeem their promises.

The gold of the world has come to America. It is the creditor nation and it is the only one that is able to sell silver to the bankrupts, even if it has to take pledges in payment. That is all very well. So many American securities have been held abroad in the past that there can be a transfer and a ceasing of the sending of interest money abroad. American silver will be able to liquidate the indebtedness and in after years we will fully realize that we needed no market for war munitions to sustain our commercial as well as our financial prowess.

A PROBLEM FOR THE CHEMISTS

FOLLOWING Secretary Lane's instructions to put special effort into its potash investigations, the United States Geological Survey is publishing the suggestion that a possible source of potash may exist in the tailings piled up at the concentrating mills of the big copper mines in the west. The "porphyry" ores which are being mined by the millions of tons annually contain several times as much potash as copper, and this remains in the tailings at the mills, material already finely ground and in condition for treatment, as well as easily accessible for shipment. This potash, however, is locked up in the form of silicate minerals, and the commercial extraction of potash from silicates has been for several years the subject of earnest study by industrial chemists. If this problem can be solved, it would appear that a large tonnage of potash-bearing material is available in the western states.

The significant fact regarding this possible source of potash is that in quantity it is more than adequate to meet all the needs of the country as measured by present consumption of potash. The problem of potash extraction from this byproduct of the copper industry therefore becomes an attractive one for the chemical engineer and mineral technologist.
